

Barcelona

16th December – 19th December 2016

A long weekend away with the family in Barcelona. The main point being to celebrate Sam's 18th birthday and watch the Catalonia derby at the Camp Nou. Arriving late on Friday night, and with a non-birding day the following day, I managed to get Sunday morning in at the Llobregat Delta next to the airport before the game in the evening. The main target was Moustached Warbler, one of the last European birds missing from my list. Seen, but poorly (see blog post). More importantly the game was a good one, with one of Messi's best ever goals for Barca'.

Weather

The weekend was fine, but our last day, Monday, was something of a wash-out (see blog post).
